Six Hundred and Forty Feet Above St. Louis, Its Fresh Mountain Air. Pure Spring Water, Fishing and Picturesque Walks and Drives Can All Be Enjoyed at Reasonable Cost at Dr. W. J. Smith's Arcadia Valley Sanitarium of Osteopathy. Where Treatment Need Not Be Taken Unless Guests Wish It.

Arcadia, Mo., June 9.-I have often | plucked, of pure, rich milk, and fresh laid thought how inapplicable many names of | *ggs, and tender, home-grown chickens. American places are; how far they fall short of properly fitting the localities they Mountain switch engine No. 76, and designate. Just as some names of places season when the heat there makes a knocked down, the front trucks passing strike me as rank misnomers the name man want to do murder. Arcadia has the opposite effect. A THREE-HOURS RIDE. Arcadia is close to St. Louis. It is only three hours on the Iron Mountain, which takes you for thirty miles parallel to the ancient shepherds couldn't possibly have had any better claim to the soft sounding title so suggestive of restfulness and natural simplicity.

there is no longer any doubt whatever. If there were any question in my mind about it. I think the friends I have in St. Louis who have found it is all that was claimed for it and have told me from time to time what it did for them, would have dispelled it. I know they are intelligent, and I know they are truthful, so that I believe what they say.

THE SCIENCE OF MANIPULATION. Osteopathy, Dr. Smith informs me, does not prescribe drugs nor does it favor surgery, except in certain cases. It rests its benefits and cures on mechanical manipulation. It treats what any other school of medicine treats and appears to cure a good many that they can't cure. Chronic obsesses of all kinds respond very quickly to its process of manipulation.

But, whether a person is sick or well, here is the place to get well or stay well and get better. Many a man and woman isn't sick, just tired, and if there is any place on earth where they can get rested, and hard of muscle and put on or take off fisch, this certainty is the place.

Here is a great, wide, roomy hotel with all the air and sunlight that can be had, and pinty of fresh, whole-some food and drink, with rigs at the cheap price of twenty-five cents an hour, and miles of lovely walks, with rishing for ten miles around, and right in front of it is Emerson Park with Styvan Lake, and trees hundreds of years old—everything in fact except clanging trolley cars and nauseous smells of chemical and soap works, and the blistering and sticky heat of St. Louis.
